Fund commentary

The Fund posted a positive return in August as falling U.S. Treasury yields reflected a weakening job market. Duration was slightly increased from 4.7 to 4.8 years.

While pressure on Fed Chair Powell eased, concerns over Fed independence lingered following Governor Kugler's resignation and Trump's nomination of ally Stephen Miran. The front end outperformed as markets priced in a September rate cut after a weak jobs report and 260,000 in downward revisions. Powell's Jackson Hole remarks—describing the labor market as in a "curious kind of balance"—further supported yields. By month-end, 2yr yields fell 34bps to 3.62%, 10yr dropped 15bps, while 30yr rose 3bps. Outside the U.S., yields generally rose. UK gilts steepened amid fiscal concerns, persistent inflation, and slowing growth. The BoE's rate cut required a second vote, with members split between holding, cutting 25bps, and one shifting from a 50bp cut. By month-end, 2yr, 10yr, and 30yr yields rose 8bps, 15bps, and 22bps respectively. In the Eurozone, mixed inflation, political instability, and growth uncertainty led to twist steepening. The 2yr Bund yield fell 2bps, while 10yr and 30yr rose 3bps and 16bps. U.S. equities outperformed Europe, echoing bond market trends. Credit spreads widened overall, though U.S. investment-grade briefly hit their tightest levels since 1998. Corporate issuance is expected to rise as firms leverage up for acquisitions. Keurig Dr Pepper agreed to buy JDE Peet's for €15.7 billion to revive its coffee business, while AT&T committed $23 billion for spectrum licenses from EchoStar, likely funded with new debt. KDP's bonds widened sharply, and S&P placed its ratings on CreditWatch Negative. Ørsted bonds also weakened after the Trump administration blocked its nearly completed offshore wind farm, coinciding with its planned 60 billion kroner equity raise. On a brighter note, Intel gained from an $8.9 billion U.S. government investment via CHIPS Act grants, acquiring a 10% stake. Strong July bank earnings supported tighter financial spreads, especially in AT1 debt, where yields and spreads compressed. Allianz's RT1 issue drew over $12 billion in demand. Powell's dovish tone at Jackson Hole drove U.S. high-yield debt yields to a 40-month low. Still, concerns linger over weaker issuers — Spirit Airlines filed for bankruptcy again, despite restructuring $800 million in its prior filing.

Market commentary

U.S. Treasuries rallied in August as signs of labor market weakness pushed yields lower, amplified by political developments including the dismissal of the Bureau of Labor Statistics chief. The month began with July's nonfarm payrolls showing a gain of just 73,000—far below the 104,000 consensus—and nearly 260,000 in downward revisions to prior months. This triggered the sharpest short-term yield rally since late 2023 and led President Trump to fire the BLS head, nominating EJ Antoni, who later proposed suspending the monthly jobs report. Fed Governor Adriana Kugler resigned, allowing Trump to appoint ally Stephen Miran as interim replacement. Economic data was mixed: U.S. services stagnated (ISM at 50.1, employment down for the fourth time in five months), while S&P Global's manufacturing PMI saw its strongest rise since 2022. Inflation remained firm—core CPI rose 3.1% year-on-year, driven by services, while headline CPI came in at 2.7%, below expectations. Core PCE edged up to 2.9%. At Jackson Hole, Fed Chair Powell noted shifting risks, prompting markets to price in a likely 25bp cut at the September FOMC. Trade policy added volatility. The White House announced a 10% global minimum tariff, with Switzerland (39%) hardest hit among developed economies, and a 50% tariff on India over Russian oil purchases. Meanwhile, the China tariff pause was extended, and the U.S.–EU trade deal progressed, with planned cuts to auto, steel, and aluminium duties. In the UK, the Bank of England cut rates to a two-year low in a rare second vote. Q2 GDP grew 0.3%, beating forecasts, but the outlook remains weak amid high borrowing costs, surging gilt yields, and 18-month inflation highs led by food prices. Eurozone data was uneven. Business activity hit a 15-month high, with manufacturing PMI above 50 for the first time since June 2022. Inflation varied—France, Spain, and Italy undershot expectations, while German CPI rose above 2%. Germany's economy contracted more than expected, and French political instability deepened as PM Bayrou called a September confidence vote, raising fears of another government collapse and pushing yields higher. Elsewhere, Japan's inflation stayed above target, and 1% GDP growth lifted 20-year JGB yields to their highest since 1999. Canada lost nearly 41,000 jobs and saw a 1.6% contraction—its first in nearly two years. Australia's RBA cut rates for a third time, with Governor Bullock hinting at "a couple more cuts."
