

Rubrics Global Credit UCITS Fund (Class KD GBP)

Objective

The Rubrics Global Credit UCITS Fund (the "Fund") invests in a diversified, global portfolio of high-quality credits. The Fund pursues a total return, non-benchmarked strategy with a strong capital preservation emphasis. We maintain a low-duration portfolio bias, usually around three years. Our target return is equal to cash plus 2.5% over the medium term.

Performance

This share class was launched on 27/05/19. The data used before this date is a simulated past performance based on the performance of the GBP Class K not adjusted for dividends to shareholders. The base performance is calculated on a NAV-to-NAV basis and is as at the last business day of the month. Past performance is no guarantee of future returns. ## Risk factors you should consider before investing

The value of investments and any income derived are subject to market and exchange rate movements and may fall as well as rise. Investors may not get back the full amount invested. Investing in investment funds is subject to market risks. Past performance results are no indication of future results. Past performance results over periods of less than twelve months are an especially unreliable indicator for future returns due to the short comparison period. Any subscription fees charged by intermediaries are not included in the performance figures. All figures and information are given without any warranty and errors are reserved. Details of the fees and expenses payable to the Fund's services providers and advisors are set out in the relevant supplements to the Fund prospectus.

Rubrics Global Credit UCITS Fund (Class KD GBP)

Fund commentary

The Rubrics Global Credit UCITS Fund (GBP Class KD) returned -0.32% in February, and is +0.24% YTD.

Credit markets traded down as participants acknowledged the economic disruption to be caused by the coronavirus. We commented last month that valuations were stretched, and the recent pullback in credit spreads is in one respect healthy, in that valuations are beginning to reflect uncertainty. The portfolio encountered some weakness in its modest exposure to somewhat more cyclical issuers. In contrast, longer dated "rates" type bonds such as the Apple 2.95% 2049 performed well due to the 32bps tightening in 30-year US Treasury. In the last few days of February, where there was heightened market volatility, we note that bond dealer demand was focused on larger issuers, with better structures and shorter duration, these characteristics are core characteristics of the overwhelming majority of the Fund's holdings. We note that expensive high beta new issuance (e.g. Italian, Greek Sub Financials) experienced the greatest price volatility, which validated our strategy of not participating in those types of issues at the levels offered by the primary market. Ratings agencies were busy in the month. Pulte, an $11bn market cap US Homebuilder which we own was given a new IG rating by one of the three main agencies. Kraft was downgraded to High Yield by two rating agencies but price action was relatively orderly in medium dated bonds of the issuer as it entered the high yield index.

Going forward, the short duration nature of the Fund, which has been around 2.00 since Q1 2018 will enable the managers to gradually put money to work as valuations improve in credit, be it through gradual spread widening or more short term market volatility. We expect volatility on the Fund to be more subdued vs the wider credit market due to the significantly lower duration compared to those following aggregated bond benchmarks.

Market commentary

The corona virus and its spread across the globe dominated news flow in February. As more countries announced confirmed cases and the number of deaths rose, markets attempted to price in the impact of reduced economic activity. Chinese Lunar New Year factory closures were extended in many cases. Chinese equities reopened at the beginning of the month and fell substantially, only to recover as the month wore on thanks to renewed stimulus measures in response to the virus. Other equity markets also recovered, with the S&P 500 setting new highs up until the 19th February. For the last week of the month however, the spread of the virus became too much to ignore and risk off moves took hold. Equities sold off sharply, havens such as treasuries were well bid and EM currencies were weak. Most economic data released during the month is not recent enough to give an indication of the virus' impact. Some of the PMI surveys did show some significant weakness, with China's manufacturing PMI falling to 35.7 and the US services PMI falling below 50. Italy emerged as the European centre of the virus, with the spread across the continent linked to travel from Northern Italy in many cases. Equities entered correction territory as the S&P 500 fell 13% from its highs and ended the month down 8.4%. Chinese equities were relatively stronger with the Shanghai composite down 3.2%. In Europe the German DAX was down 8.4% and in the UK the FTSE 100 lost 9.7%. Government bonds continued their strong 2020 performance with US 10y yields 36bp lower at 1.15% and German yields down 17bp to -0.61%. Oil also remained under pressure, trading 13.2% lower on the month. The USD was stronger by 0.8% as measured by the DXY index. The Japanese Yen didn't see the same level of haven flows as it has in the past, although it was still 0.4% stronger against the USD. The EUR finished the month 0.6% lower against the USD, although this was significantly off its worst levels as the EUR's use as a funding currency resulted in unwinding flows benefitting the currency during the month. EM currencies were weak again, down by 2.6%. The market remains very concerned over the impact of the virus on the global economy and corporate profits, while also wary of the impact of monetary and fiscal responses. This makes for volatile trading conditions as expectations are constantly updated.
